Find Farms Get Insurance Off Soil Bank Land

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators say some farmers have collected federal insurance for crop failure on the same land for which they received soil bank payments to grow crops.

A House Agriculture Appropriations subcommittee listed this and other instances of what it called "double dipping" of federal soil bank funds last year in a report of hearings made public today.

The general reply of Agriculture Department officials was that the soil bank law was passed late in the season last year and rushed to effect with the result that some unusual payments undoubtedly were made. They termed this a "1956 peculiarity" that they said "won't happen again."

The subcommittee investigators last reported, according to the hearing testimony, that in other instances, farmers were paid for not planting corn on land on which they were legally forbidden to plant corn.

And in some cases, investigators say, farmers were paid for taking land out of one type of wheat and then in turn were paid a premium for planting it in another type of wheat.

These reports were the subject of sharp criticism from committee members considering Department of Agriculture requests for a billion dollars to pay farmers during his 1958 fiscal year to place part of their surplus producing cropland in the soil bank.

Subcommittee Chairman Whitman (D-Mass.) told Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Marvin L. McLean that findings of staff investigators on handling of soil bank funds "surprised me."

Whitman said it appeared that soil bank payments were "dished out" just before the 1956 fall elections to offset dropping farm income in the Midwest farm belt.

The bulk of soil bank funds in 1956, or approximately 169 million dollars, went to Midwestern corn belt farmers.

McLean told the subcommittee that the soil bank law was "dumped in our lap" late in 1956, and "we have to administer the law the way it is laid in our lap."

Garland Joins Other Schools in Festival

Vince Foster will take the part of Year when Garland joins the other schools of the city in presenting the Operetta "Seasons of Happiness" in Hammons Stadium on May 7. He and his clerk, James Paul Hulson, will attempt to help Mother Nature, Carolyn Hall, decide who is to rule the world at this season of the year.

He calls on the twelve Months to serve as a jury. Those taking part as months will be John Scott Andrews, Dick Hall, Billy Downs, Paul Guerin, Orville Steadman, Dan Jones, Phil McLarty, Jamie Don Lindsey, Billy Wilson, Harry Ray McMahon. After their verdict Jack Cobb, as Herald will announce the Queen of Spring.

Would Educate DAV Children

HELENA (AP) — Legislation to provide college educations for children of all totally disabled war veterans was urged yesterday by Joseph F. Burke of Bayona, N.J., national commander of Disabled American Veterans.

Burke said such benefits now are restricted to children of deceased disabled veterans.

The DAV state convention closed here yesterday. Hosea Gkpson of Jonesboro was elected state commander. He succeeds Bill (Rocky) Dunn of Conway.

Other officers included Harmon Dildy of Nashville, senior vice commander; and Fred Duertz of Mount Airy, N.C., C. Simmons of Helena, Tilden Stead of Gurdun and Connie Dildy of DeWitt junior vice commanders.

'Model' School Funds May Be Withdrawn

MORRILTON (AP) — A veteran school superintendent's job, as well as the fate of Winthrop Rockefeller's proposed "model" school system here, apparently hangs in the balance today as a result of the threatened withdrawal of the Arkansas millionaires financial support.

School Board Chairman Bob Harris said yesterday, "We hope to know something soon."

Realization of Morrilton's dream of a 2½ million dollar school system was jeopardized Saturday with the disclosure that the Rockwin Fund Board had voted to suspend further "enrichment" aid to the Morrilton School District.

The Rockwin Board, a benevolent organization set up by Rockefeller after he moved to Arkansas a few years ago, said the district had not properly utilized an $80,460 grant.

Harris said yesterday the Rockwin resolution implied that it was dissatisfied with the present school administration and this, he said, meant Supt. V. L. Boren.

Harris said, however, the board feels that Boren has done an "outstanding job but I don't know what the outcome will be."

"We have already discussed the situation with Mr. Rockefeller, but reached no conclusions," he said. He added that the school board members would confer with Rockefeller again.

Harris said the school board will meet the "first of this week to consider the Rockwin resolution and make some decision."

The board met Saturday night, shortly after the resolution was announced, but took no action on the matter.

"Of course," said the school board chairman, "the superintendent has made enemies through the year but there will be no name calling."

Asked about reported effort to oust him, Boren said he only knew what he read in the newspapers. The superintendent, who has held his position 27 years, declined further comment.

Phil H. Loh, Rockwin Fund Board chairman, who used the word "threat" in discussing the group's resolution, said the action would not affect construction of a new elementary school being built here with Rockefeller money.

But he said withdrawal of further aid could hurt the overall program.

Harris and Boren said Saturday they did not know what effect the Rockwin suspension would have, and maintained that they did not know what the Rockwin Board wanted them to do.

Rockefeller, through his attorney Ed Dunaway, declined comment. Dunaway said, Rockefeller felt "the whole thing is a result of some misunderstanding and that it will be amicably worked out."

Baravian's Restaurant Attracted Celebrities

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Just 75 years ago this month August Luchow, a waiter from Bavaria, borrowed $1,500 and opened a restaurant that soon became and remained a world famous celebrity haunt.

A roll call of its clientele is an index of Manhattan's fabulous past-studded by such names as Victor Herbert, Caruso, O. Henry, Al Smith, Ziegfeld O. O. McIntyre and of course Mike Todd.

The names change—but the pig knuckles on the menu still come steaming hot and olephantized.

What was Gay Gothum like back in May, 1882, when August served up his first plate of sauerbraten with a side of foaming Wurzberger beer?

Here is one Luchow patron's idea of what a gossip column of that vanished heyday of the full stomach might say—if the gossip column had been invented then:

Handsome Lord Randolph Churchill will be guest of honor at a party that Mrs. Astor and Ward McAllister are throwing next week. He left his beautiful wife, the former Jenny Jerome, and their young son, Winston, at Marlborough Castle.

There's a good chance that a federal civil service law will pass. The Post Office scandals and job buying have the voters up in arms. Health Department worried about outbreak of typhus and smallpox on East 47th St. There Medical circles here excited about Prof. Koch's theory that tuberculosis is caused by a parasite he calls a bacillus. He's working on a TB vaccine now. Paderewski and Josefey feuding Brooklyn Bridge to be finished soon.

Critic Jim Hunker predicts that young Steve Crane will be one of our top novelists when his "Red Badge of Courage" is finished. A sure bet for the best seller list. Newsweek lifted their eyebrows at the respectable Ties call the police commissioner a "blatherskite."

Three more muggings in Central Park. Much indignation over Russia's new anti-Semitic laws. The Nathans calling the blessed event George Jean. P. T. Postalmen Want a 35-Hour Week

FORT SMITH (AP) — One postal representative from each of Arkansas' six congressional districts will go to Washington May 14-15 in support of legislation for a 35-hour week and other proposed benefits.

The state convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers Saturday resolved to send the delegates.

Officers elected at the close of the meetings included Claud Martin of Fort Smith, president; James Francis of Texarkana, vice president; E. W. Goodwin of Hot Springs, secretary, and Dell Ren of Little Rock, treasurer.

Stockholders of Fairbanks, Morse Rebel

CRESSON, Pa. (AP) — A group of insurgent Penn-Texas Corp. stockholders moved today to elect a board of directors of its own choice and oust present management headed by Leopold D. Silberstein, a Wall Street financier.

The insurgents, known as the "Penn-Texas Stockholders Protective Committee," slated seven candidates for the 8-member board.

The election was scheduled as part of the annual stockholders meeting.

For Silberstein, the fight for control will be a continuation of his battle to gain control of the Chicago firm of Fairbanks Morse & Co.

Silberstein and his Penn-Texas backers have waged two proxy fights to gain control of the Chicago firm. The most recent bid likely will be a long, drawn-out court fight.

Major Rioting Is Reported in Pole Garrison

WARSAW (AP) — A major riot was reported today from Jaroslaw, a garrison town in southwest Poland.

More than 1,000 police and troops were called in to quiet the disturbance, which apparently occurred just before the weekend.

A report in the Warsaw newspaper Szpandier Miodych suggested it was one of the most serious of recent outbreaks against Communist state authority. It carries indication of a military mutiny.

These indications were:

1. The arrival of Gen. Kurupleska, a district military commander.

2. Appointment of a military investigation commission to determine responsibility for the trouble.

The paper said the outbreak started with the arrest of a young soldier on a charge of drunkenness. It said other soldiers and "young hooligans" sided with the arrested man, went to the police station and "started a fuss."

A crowd of several hundred gathered outside the police station and flung stones through the windows.

The paper said: "An appeal by police for calm and order brought no response. The trouble increased. A number of soldiers were hurt and police were forced to use tear gas."

The paper said a battalion of reserve police and a second battalion of the army riots squad were brought in. A battalion is about 800 men.

Nineteen people were reported taken into custody, of whom seven were held. One of these arrested was an army sergeant-major.

No date was given for the riot. The paper blamed the sale of too much liquor at dances as "the main cause." It added two investigating commissions had been set up—one under the military prosecutor and one under the civil prosecutor.

This was the third outbreak reported since the beginning of April. More than 40 persons were injured in a fight with police at Stargard, near Szczecin (Stettin), during protests over the eviction of a woman and four children.

Peasants marched on police headquarters at Lomza, near Warsaw, three weeks ago protesting police brutality against two brothers.

Police Probe Two Wrecks, Altercation

City Police investigated two accidents and an altercation over the weekend.

Saturday night at the Drive-In Theater cars driven by Johnny Graves and Carl D. Ward of Emmel collided resulting in considerable damage to both vehicles.

At 4th and Hazel James Caldwell was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way following an accident in which the auto he was driving collided with another driven by Marshall Norwood.

City officers said the left front of the Norwood car was badly smashed and the Caldwell auto had headlight and fender damage.

Officers also placed a charge of disturbing the peace against Hershel Martin following an altercation at the home of B. L. English on Berry street. Both are Negroes.

Officers said English cut Martin on the head with a knife and fired two shots at him, both missing. The argument involved a woman, Police said. Martin's condition is not considered serious.

Wreck Injuries Prove Fatal to J. T. Merritt

John Thomas Merritt, aged 44, died Saturday of injuries suffered more than a week ago in an auto accident near Pine Bluff. Shortly after the accident Mr. Merritt was thought to be all right but was taken to a local hospital with internal injuries when he arrived home. Mr. Merritt was a native of Jonesboro.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Maurice Thomas Merritt and a son, John Thomas Merritt Jr., of Hope.

Beck, Brewster Are Charged by AFL and CIO

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN

WASHINGTON (UP) — The AFL-CIO today charged Teamster President Dave Beck and Vice President Frank Brewster with using union funds for "personal purposes" and "using their union positions for 'personal profit or advantage.'"

Teamsters Vice President Sydney Brennan of Minneapolis, who has been convicted of accepting money from an employer, was charged with failing to take action against the three.

The AFL-CIO specifically questioned the Teamster leadership "apparent failure" to determine for itself whether Beck is in fact guilty of "personal corruption in the handling of union funds and in the conduct of union affairs and invoked the Fifth Amendment . . . to conceal the fact."

Beck was accused by the Senate Rackets committee of using more than $320,000 in union funds for personal matters, but he resorted to the Fifth Amendment 117 times in refusing to answer the committee's questions about his financial dealings with the union.

The bill of particulars was contained in a 22-page statement presented before the AFL-CIO ethical Practices Committee as it started its hearing on the question whether the big Teamsters union is dominated or substantially influenced by corrupt influence.

The AFL-CIO charges were spelled out after Beck himself accused the parent union in an opening statement of conducting a "medieval inquisition and witch hunt" at the hearing.

Beck, backed up in his statement by other members of the Teamster executive board, denounced the general charge of corruption as "malicious and unfounded slander."

Beck demanded that the committee provide the Teamster leaders a bill of "particulars" as the charges against the union. He said the board members had come to the hearing "solely" to find out whether they would get a detailed breakdown of the allegations.

It was after he spoke that the committee came up with a 22-page statement detailing the charges.

Beck had said that if the particulars were provided, "we shall then be able to make a statement with respect to our position."

Beck was in a jovial mood as he posed for photographers outside AFL-CIO headquarters before the start of the hearing.

Young Men May Join Ike's Cabinet

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's Cabinet isn't very old in average age but some of his key men are away up there and, like Eisenhower, will be over 70 if they stick around to the end of his administration in 1961.

Eisenhower himself is 66. Three Cabinet members are older; Secretary of State Dulles, 69; Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, 67; and Secretary of Defense Wilson, also 66 but three months older than the President.

Average age of the 10 Cabinet members: 59. Five of them are over 60, five under. If the 10 stay around until 1961, all but two will then be over 60, with an average of 63½. Three — Dulles, Humphrey, Wilson — will be over 70.

But Humphrey and Wilson are rumored just about ready to call it quits and go back to civilian life. Dulles' future for his job seems undiminished, although he was operated on for an intestinal cancer six months ago.

The departure of these three would enable Eisenhower to bring younger men into his Cabinet. But this wouldn't mean a great deal in the sense that younger men would be running things for the Republicans as Eisenhower's term ends.

Not one of those now in the Cabinet has been seriously mentioned as a likely candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960. Vice President Nixon seems to have the inside track on that.

And if he won the election he almost certainly in the tradition of presidents would pick his own Cabinet.

Except for Dulles, Humphrey and Wilson, only two other Cabinet members are over 60. They are Secretary of Commerce Weeks, 63, and Marion B. Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare also 63.

All the rest are under 60. Post-antoinishing statements like "Pills have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — discovery of a world-famous research institute. Unrest Flares in Bogota's Capital

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Unrest continues in Bogota despite occupation of the Colombian capital by 35,000 troops.

Police used tear gas and streams of dyed water over the weekend to break up demonstrations against President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla's reported plans to have himself re-elected by a hand-picked Constituent Assembly.

The disorders continued yesterday, even though the armed forces had seized the capital in what was described as routine military maneuvers. Police threw tear gas shells at a crowd gathered around a Roman Catholic church where a priest renewed his attacks on the government. The gas seeped inside, halting the Sunday mass.

The government declared last night the country was quiet, although some "isolated, antisocial individuals" had been jailed.

But the high school and university students at the forefront of the demonstrations appeared determined to continue a protest strike in defiance of an official warning to return to classes or face possible loss of their army-exempt status. Outside the capital, student strikes have also been reported in Cali, Medellin and Popayan.

11 Persons Meet Death by Violence

By The Associated Press

Eleven persons died violently in Arkansas during the week which ended Sunday midnight. The toll was the smallest in weeks.

Traffic took three lives. Three persons were shot fatally, two drowned and one was accidentally electrocuted. A logging accident took one life and another person was crushed by a truck in a non-traffic mishap.

A .22 caliber rifle bullet killed 45-year-old Mrs. Lillie Stane instantly Saturday night at a neighbor's farm home near Yellville. Police said the circumstances of the shooting were hazy and they were holding two men for questioning.

J. Clay Holes, 71, was struck by a car and killed yesterday as he attempted to cross U. S. Highway 65 near Harrison. Holmes once operated a hospital at Hot Springs.

The collision of two automobiles at an intersection in Pine Bluff took the life of an 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lackey of Pine Bluff.

The parents and their other small daughter, Linda, were injured. Airman I. C. Cleo G. Hindman 24, was shot to death Saturday at his home in Jacksonville. He had been stationed at Little Rock Air Force Base. Dr. L. Gordon Holt, Pulaski County deputy coroner, ruled the death an accident.

New York state requires a certificate of auto liability insurance for drivers to get plates.

as moderator. The following women served on the panel: Mrs. E. J. Whitman, Mrs. Lloyd Guerin, Mrs. George Wright, Mrs. Cline Franks, Mr. James H. Jones, Mrs. C. C. McNeil, Mrs. John B. Lowe and Mrs. Jim McKenzie.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. W. M. Reinhardt as leader assisted by Mrs. L. T. Lawrence and Mrs. V. D. Keeley.

Music was provided by the Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. B. C. Hyatt.

Mrs. J. W. Branch
Hostess to Pat Cleburne
Chapter U. D. C.

The Pat Cleburne Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, held its monthly meeting on Thursday, May 30, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Branch, with Mrs. Mary Duncan, co-hostess.

The meeting was opened with the pledge and salutes to the flags. The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. H. C. Whitworth, chapter president.

Mrs. Sam Strong, chapter program chairman, presented a program on, "Women of the Confederacy." Mrs. Jack Edwards of El Dorado District Chairman for the organization, was the featured speaker.

Special music was provided by seven young ladies from Hope High School, a quartette consisting of Carolyn Strong, Caroline Cox, Susan Davis and Diane Helms presented a medley of southern songs with Mary Charlene Horton as accompanist. Lanelle Fuller and Jeanette Fincher played, "Dixie" as a clarinet duet.

During the social hour each member displayed some item of interest connected with the confederacy.

The hostess served a delicious salad plate and the meeting adjourned.

Miss Ella Elizabeth Simmons
Engagement Made Known
Mr. and Mrs. Noble Effette Simmons of Rosedale, Miss., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ella Elizabeth to Robert Laverne Beard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Artworth Beard of New Albany, Miss.

The wedding will be an event of June 8 at the First Baptist Church in Rosedale.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James William England and the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew R. Simmons of Hope.

Miss Simmons was graduated from Rosedale High School and attended Mississippi College in Clinton, Miss.

Mr. Beard is the grandson of Mrs. Hugh Henry Adams and the late Mr. Adams of House, Miss., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wort Beard of Jackson, Miss.

The bridegroom-elect was graduated from New Albany High School and attended Mississippi State College in Starkville. He is now stationed with the Air Force at the Greenville, Miss., Air Force Base.

Adoption Impossible?
Take a Foster Child!

Dear Dorothy Dix: I often read letters to you from unmarried teen-agers who are pregnant and desperate. How I would love to adopt one of those unwanted children. I've tried everywhere to adopt a child, but since I am over 36 I receive the same answer — too old! Apparently the only people who can adopt babies are movie stars or other famous people.

Do you know how we can get an orphan from overseas? We could make a child so welcome in our comfortable home.

Dear A. W.: Many, many couples like you are looking for adoptive children. Getting a child is an arduous labor of love punctuated by endless interviews and much bench-warming. The fortunate ones who achieve their aims are to be congratulated.

Adoption agencies try to match children to parents in age, and so it is difficult for a couple over 35 to adopt an infant. Have you, however, thought of adopting an older child? The demand is greatest, of course, for tiny babies, and sometimes adoption agencies have difficulty placing older children.

If you wish to inquire about adopting an orphan from overseas, write to International Social Service, 345 East 46th St., New York, N. Y. This agency, financed by the Department of State, Church World Service, and a group of Hollywood motion picture stars, has placed more than 6,000 European and Asian children with couple in the United States since World War II.

It is the bliss of having a child of your own, of a legally adopted one, is denied you, don't waste the gift of love that is in your heart. Have you considered becoming a foster parent, taking in a child who needs care on a temporary basis? You'll find this a most rewarding task. Consult your local welfare bureau or that of your religious affiliation, and take one of these neglected children into your home.

Dear Dorothy Dix: The boy I've been going with for the past few months seems to have a nervous disease. His hands tremble and sometimes his head jerks.

Dear N. E.: Probably the symptoms occur only in your presence. Pretty girls often have that effect on susceptible males. Find out from mutual friends if the condition seems chronic. If so, learn all details before he has a chance to propose.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm in love with a serviceman who is engaged to a girl in his home town. He probably started going with me because he was lonesome, but now he's very much attracted to me. We've tried to keep our dates platonic, but the romantic element is becoming too strong to be ignored. I'm hoping he'll break his engagement but don't want to force the issue.

Dear Annette: Potential dangers in a situation like this can't be ignored. Eventually you'll have to face them — why not now? The girl back home is always at an advantage. Either you bow out now with a slightly fractured heart, or you continue until it's quite broken. End the association and avoid regrets.

Montana entered the Union on Nov. 1888.

THE STORY: Through the Italian movie star, Gina Lollobrigida, a young man, Johnnie Forness, has obtained an invitation to a party given by Baron Gambero, one of the suspects in a case that Milo is investigating. Milo suspects the case was murder, although police insist it was an accidental death.

CHAPTER XIII

We finished our strawberries and had coffee espresso. Piero drank his fast, then glanced at his watch.

"I am sorry," he said, "but this has been so pleasant and taken so long that I am late for another appointment. Will you both forgive me if I hurry along."

We both assured him that we would. He reminded me to call him the following day and then he left. Gianna and I lingered. Finally I called for the bill—it was less than 10,000 lire for the three of us—and we left. At her suggestion, we stopped in at a couple of night clubs. In the second club we ran into an old friend, Johnnie Forness.

"He was at the bar with a girl. A knockout. She had a classic Roman face that was beautiful. Funny how the same sort of face can be beautiful on one girl and not on another. I was thinking of the girl in the intercontinental office, for she had the same kind of face. This girl had deep black hair that fell loosely to her bare shoulders, and she had a figure that made Gianna look underweight. I noticed that even the bartenders didn't pay much attention to what they were mixing. I wondered what she was doing with a guy like Johnnie Forness."

"Hi, baby," he said to Gianna in English. "You going to be at the party this weekend?"

"Yes," she said. She didn't sound as if she liked him, but that might have been for my benefit. "We have been invited by Baron Gambero."

"So have I, baby," he said with a grin. "Hi Milo. You seem to be getting around fast."

He made no move to introduce his companion.

"You two know each other?" Gianna said in astonishment.

"Sure," I told her. "Johnnie and I knew each other in America. I was walking by a sewer one day when he came crawling out."

He brayed an artificial laugh.

"Milo, you kill me."

"I might at that," I told him. She didn't know what I was talking about, but she was willing to play all in fact, she was the most eager ball player I'd ever seen outside a Yankee training camp. She'd decided I was an integral part of the career and she wasn't going to let go. When I suggested going somewhere else, she fell in with the idea. I had a few twinges of conscience about it as she tagged along when I strode out of the bar.

"Have you ever been to Alfredo's?" she asked.

"No," I said, "but I'm young yet."

She giggled as I hailed a taxi. We climbed in and she told the driver to take us to Alfredo's.

"You haven't been to Rome till you've been to Alfredo's," she said. For some reason she sounded like a tourist. "There are three Alfredo's in Rome, but we're going to the original one. In the Piazza Augusto Imperatore."

At Gianna's insistence we got a table instead of going into the bar. We ordered some odds and ends. Then I excused myself. I'd made up my mind about something. I was going to take a flyer on a long shot.

I found a public phone and a Rome directory I looked up Ugo Marrone's phone number and called him.

"Pronto," a voice finally said. I recognized his voice. He sounded sleepy.

"Yes?" He didn't sound sleepy any longer.

"I've been thinking about it," I said, "and I've decided to give you what you want."

"Why?" he asked.

"I'm sothearted," I said. "I've been sitting here feeling sorry for the poor, downtrodden Italian Communist leaders, forced to wear silk suits whether they want

Reporting Is Usually a Dull Job Off of TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Dane Clark, one of the three rotating stars of "Wire Service," has no patience with journalists who either carp or kid about the way the series portrays working members of the profession.

"It's perfectly true that no one reporter could possibly have all the adventures assigned to him," says Clark aggressively. "No one could possibly go all the places and do all the things we have him doing. And it's true that the average reporter isn't the glamorous guy, always on the move, always in dangerous spots."

What he ignores, he continued, is that the television show is not a documentary of the working reporter.

"In 'Wire Service' we're trying to put together shows which will interest audiences and hold them. And in this thing, the reporter is only a symbol—he's a symbol for a whole lot of newspaperpeople who most of the time are doing dull jobs. If we showed 50 people working on a story, we wouldn't have anything left for the audience to hang on to."

Odd and Ends: Lawrence Welk, naturally, will celebrate Mothers Day eve next Saturday with some to or not. My new slogan is: Workers of the world, unite—you have nothing to lose but your dentures."

He called me a name that was no compliment.

"Careful, Ugo, old comrade. I bruise easily and don't forget that I come bearing gifts."

He was silent for a minute. "What will you give us?" he asked finally.

"You may quote me," I said, "as a representative of the intercontinental insurance company, as saying that I am convinced that Ana Maria Pericoloso was murdered. End of quote. If you say one more thing about me, or even imply that I said anything beyond that, I'll sue you for every lira of your Moscow gold. Not to mention the few things which I will do to you personally."

"Are you threatening me?"

"Yes, I said cheerfully.

Finally at about two in the morning we gave up. It was just as well. Not only was I tired, but if this kept up intercontinentals expense money would get pretty tight. We took a taxi to Gianna's apartment house.

I was really ready to hit the sack when I reached the hotel. I went straight up to my room. I unlocked the door and stepped inside. Then I stopped. Something sharp was pressing against my throat.

"Clama," a voice said softly, "My knife is sharp."

REAR-END DRIVE—Apparently taking a cue from a German automobile, designers of this "RW-3 Multiplane" put the 65-horsepower Porsche motor in the rear of the fuselage and the propeller (arrow) inside a tail fin slot. The plane, latest post-war German model, is designed primarily as a trainer and can be used as a glider. It is shown in test flight over the Rhine River, near Cologne.

Ellen McRae Celebrates Birthday

The Legion tent was gaily decorated with multi-colored balloons and bowls of roses and honey-suckle on Wednesday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. D. L. McRae Jr. entertained with a birthday party for the pleasure of their daughter, Ellen, on her sixth anniversary. Mr. McRae made pictures of the guests as they arrived.

Games were played and movie cartoons were shown.

Favors were balloons and candy and gum that fell from a Mexican pinata in the shape of a pink and white birthday cake that was hung from the ceiling.

The refreshment table was covered with an Irish lace cloth and centered with a white birthday cake topped with a pink and white may pole and encircled with dancing dolls. The guests were seated at a long table decorated with may baskets filled with spring flowers and included Ellen Gordon, Paupy Crane, Ann Bolton, Eddie Daniel, Kathy Langley, Roscoe Franks, Jane Scott, Kathy Bratton, Doug Gordon, Helen Tessa Murry, Tommy DeBlase, Mary Gail Wilson, Rena Bolton, Connie and Beth Morris, Ginny Gray, Marvahn Cunningham, Matilda Jane Bernis, Emily and Richard Oates, Dickey Moseley, Jim DeFaria, Steve King and Gilda Fay Hines.

Mrs. McRae was assisted by Mrs. J. R. Bernis, Mrs. H. H. McKenzie and Mrs. D. L. McRae, paternal grandmother of the honoree.

Miss Jo Ann Browning of St. Charles was named Reddie Day Queen at Henderson State Teachers College on Wednesday and presided over a day of activities attended by about 800 high school seniors from 49 schools and included Sammy Vandiver, Paul Stead, Johnny Langley, John Robert Cox and Kenneth Bradshaw of the Prescott High School. Russia Maneuvers Reported in North OSLO (AP)—The Oslo newspaper, Aftenposten, said today Norwegian whalers have reported big Russian naval maneuvers off the coast of Murmansk.

Norwegian Military authorities refused to comment officially, but indicated the reports were correct.

The Aftenpost quoted one whaling captain as saying "the maneuvers were going full steam when his vessel arrived off Murmansk April 10. Ships and planes seemed to be everywhere," he said.

The captain said he stayed in the area four days and observed 15 to 20 submarines, four or five large surface vessels and large numbers of aircraft units of 35 to 40 planes each.
